Welcome to the September 26' edition of the Monthly Byte!

Welcome back!

It's hard to believe it's September again. I was reminiscing with another Co-worker today that it just felt like the fall of 2025 was yesterday.

It's been wonderful to see so many familiar faces - summer tends to get lonely working in those computer labs with nobody else to talk to! ;)

So what exactly is this newsletter focused on? Well.. quality of life changes for Information Technology.. and some pretty cool new resources we're really proud to share. Read on…

For those of you who are new…

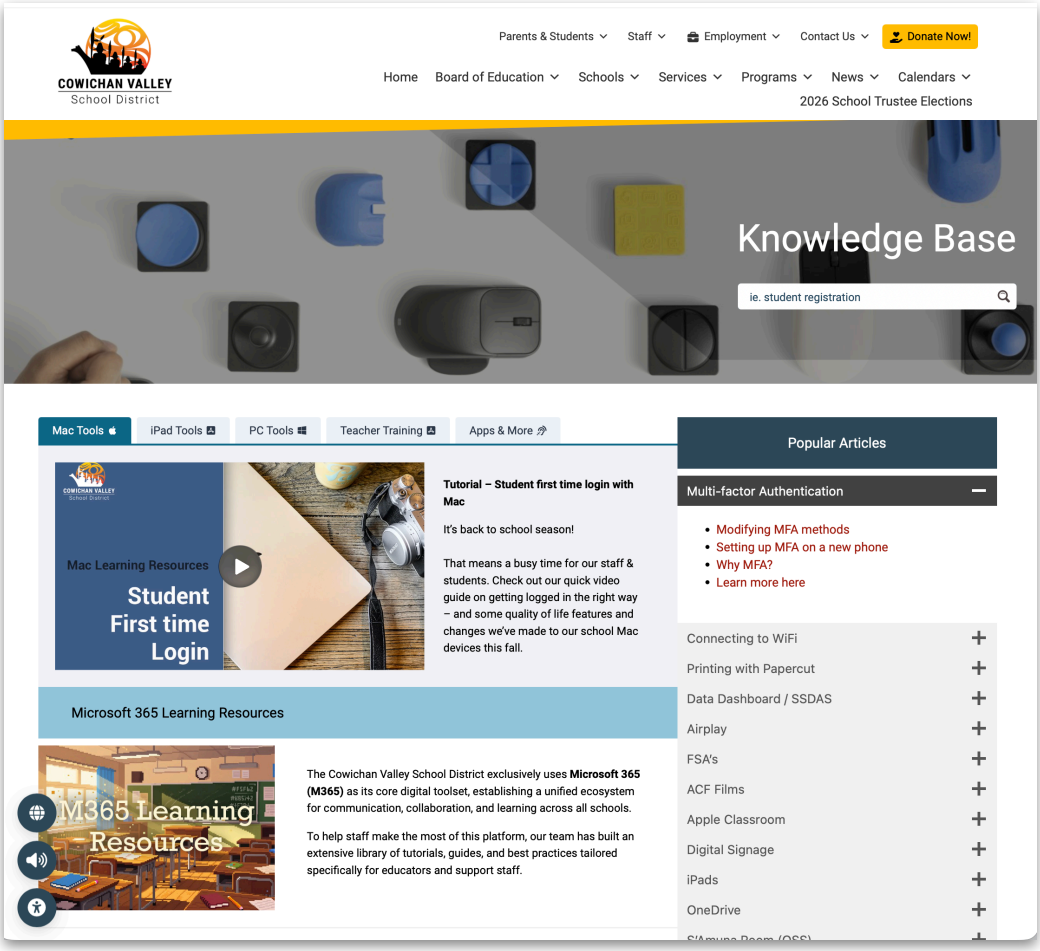
The Monthly Byte is a newsletter brought to you from Technology Services. We aim to bring humility, transparency & behind the scenes.. and always with a dash of humour. (Yep, that's my pet Chicken, Ukee.)

Summer work!
I am so proud I get to be part of an amazing team like this. Everyone has truly pulled off a magic amount of work to enhance the experience of our technology in service of our students. We have taken your feedback from last year and implemented many changes to help smooth the use of technology across our schools.

Knowledge base
One of the biggest takeaways talking to many of the educators & support staff in our schools is the need for access to resources as it pertains to technology. I took this as a challenge.

Ironically, a vast majority of my direct family also works in K12. So having them to lean on, consult with & bounce ideas off many of you in the field has been paramount in building this new resource..

I am absolutely thrilled to announce… the Knowledge Base!



After hearing consistent feedback from the field, we consolidated resources as it pertains to Technology and put it into one webpage. This is curated material made from us to you (educators and support staff) on everything from Airplay, logging in, passwords, printing to cybersecurity, privacy, iPads & education focused material.

This resource is accessible from our School District website - Staff menu - Technology Knowledge base or from our Technology Support webpage.

We hope this proves to be a valuable resource for all staff - we plan to continue adding walkthroughs, resources, guides and more as it becomes relevant.
